PILOTS PLEA TO U.N.

AR. Kurt Waldheim, the U.N. Secretary-General, has regretfully expressed the view that the U.N. Security Council is unable to do anything against the hijacking and other attacks on international air transport, and that he does not see that the general pilots' strike announced for tomorrow, failing U.N. action, can do much good.

Then what can? Should the pilots, in his view, accept the growing threat to their lives and that of the rest of the crews - quite spart from that of the passengers in a spirit of heroic fatalism? At the present time it is still possible and reasonable for passengers to take this attitude, for a minority of passengers use flights that are bijacked. Air crews, however, who spend their working lives in flight, are entitled to consider the cumulative risk, as well as the fact that the attacks may ultimately constitute a threat to their profession and livelihood.

The Security Council, for purely technical reasons, appears unable to meet before the pilots' ultimatum runs out, which does not do much credit either to the current Yugoslav chairman, or to Dr. Waldheim himself. It is of interest in this connection that the Environmental Conference called in Stockholm by the Swedish government and attended by no fewer that 110 national governments, was able to formulate and approve a useful three-part plan for future government action, despite per-sistent Chinese efforts to torpedo agreement by introducing sharp-ly anti-American motions in connection with the war in Viet-

The various Arab airlines, after first considering whether they should join tomorrow's they should join tomorrows strike in protest, not against hijacking but against the Israel retallatory action in which airplanes were destroyed on the ground at Beirut airfield several years ago, decided they would not join the strike, perhaps rea-lizing that this formula sounded rather foolish. We know by now that the Security Council has been unable to prevent wars, not here, not in Vietnam, not in ris and not in Bangladesh. But if it is to survive even for more modest purposes, it must discover some means of operating. At a time of determined attempts at world rapprochement, of Nixon visits to China and Russia, and Soviet ap-proaches to China, the fear of offending Arab terrorist organizations should not be enough to prevent the world organizations from studying the whole spectrum of air piracy.

The Lebanese-based terrorists may have been fairly prominent in this unlovely field, but they are by no means its sole expo-nents. For all we know, the two major crashes in the Far East within the past few days may have been caused by hijack

If Dr. Waldheim wants the organization he heads to regain any of its waning prestige he should realize that this can only be done by taking such issues as these out of the political into the practical sphere. It would take courage and determination, and also at least the degree of common sense shown by the countries supporting the strike. It looks as though Dr. Waldheim is missing a major opportunity for the U.N. to reassert its principles and to dem-onstrate that Austrians do not necessarily seek to yield to the fiercest talkers.

Answering student questions at Haifa University, the Minister said that recently there had been an increase in violence and in the use of firearms. He thought that this was partly due to the large quantities of arms now in the possession of civilians. There are 4,000 licensed guns in the country, but in addition there are weapons taken as booty during the war and which criminals have got hold of.

The Police Minister said that an atmosphere of violence, that had not existed in the past, had developed in the country. "We must fight this phenomenon, but we must remember that this is not a matter for the police alone but for society in general," he said. The police last year solved 44 per cent of the rob-beries, he said, adding, "but what is needed above all is not just police action but new social means to fight crime.

The overall position of the hired men is not a rosy one, however. Since they are not organized, they have no job security, no pension or even sick benefit provisions, no vacation rights or separation pay. Drivers have little security. Again and again one hears awed reports of drivers raising a great sum of money to purchase a permit and a car. Although taxis are al-lost tax-free, a Checker cab still secuted by the Transport Min costs about IL47,000 and a Mercedes ILA5,000, with the Peugeot coming to IL27,000.

High charge

Some months ago the Transport Ministry considered the suggestion that it issue licences more freely, but charge IL20,000 for each. The Government would thus on the one hand benefit from the trade in permits, while on the other hand its move would tend to curb further inflation. The proposal was dismissed however, as not consistent with democratic principles of government

To the question to officials of why the Ministry, which controls taxi tariffs, does not use the lowering of tariffs or at least the denial of increases, as a means of holding down the value of permits, our reporter got only a shrug of the shoulder as answer and a vague You can't ask people to earn less."

Under the new regulations issued in February, 1971, a total of 1,200 drivers have applied, but most of the applications are still being pro-

The applications, which contain sworn statements by the applicant, are first screened by the Ministry. Since the Ministry, however, has no power to question statements and ask for their corroboration, the applications are then forwarded for final approval to a special commission with judicial powers. The com-mission is headed by Jerusalem Disrict Court Judge Min and comprises advocates Moshe Cohen and Zvi Schwartz. (No Ministry representative is a member.) Persons whose initial application has been rejected by the Ministry can appeal for a review to the commission.

Experience has shown that with a valuable permit at stake people are liable to resort to all kinds of subterfuges to mislead the Ministry, an official told The Post. In a procedure similar to that used for building permits, applications being processed are published in the Government gazette and in the press. This has resulted in some false information helps brought to light formation being brought to light.

Following through on its new policy the Transport Ministry has already announced that starting this October those with only eight, rather than ten, years of experience will be eligible to apply for a permit. As a result of this a driver who has been in the taxi business for four or five years will think twice before he pays an inflated price for a permit, knowing that in another four or three years he can get one free of charge.

War invalids and immigrants still get preference under the new policy. All the 55 permits assigned to the Defence Ministry in 1971 have already been approved and handed out. Of the 25 licences allotted the Absorption Ministry, not all have been processed so far.

To qualify, an immigrant must have been a taxi driver abroad, although the ten-year rule does not apply to him. Many prospective im-migrants apply while still abroad. They are told that while their pri-vileges are good for three years after their aliya, the same as other immigrants' rights, they must be in the country and a citizen before becoming eligible for a permit.

Most enquiries have been received from England, France and Turkey. with few from the U.S. so far. Some recent immigrants from Russia have applied Two Georgians are already driving their cabs, one in Lydds and the other in Kiryat Ma-

Of the country's 3,500 to 3,600 taxi cabs, 1,300 to 1,400 are in Tel Aviv, about 800 in Haifa, 450 in Jerusalem, and the rest in smaller towns. Regarding licences the situatuation of Jerusalem is unique because of the addition of the East Jerusalem Arab drivers to the city's taxi fleet after the Six Day War. Mr. Ya'acov Krieger, chairman of the 250-member Jerusalem Taxi

Owners Association, says that the proportion of Jewish to Arab owners in the city now is about 250 to 200, approximately the reverse of what it was before the war. Relations between Arab and Jewish taxi-men are good, he says, except for the occasional rivalry between drivers, which is normal everywhere. The taxi business is a tough, husty business, where some men make very good incomes, while many hired drivers never earn much more than a bare living. With its rule of a green permit for everyone after eight years, the Transport Ministry seems at last on the road to setting the business on a steady

YOUTH SEMINARS AT BEIT BERL EVALUATED

Youthful rebellion on whose terms?

By Lea Levavi Jorusalem Post Reporte

TEL AVIV. TSRAELI high school seniors prefer to sweep difficult problems under the rug. They are fiercely chauvinist and seem to be radical nationalists when the Arab problem is discussed; but their nationalism does not prevent them from being anti-immigrant.

These were some of the generalizations raised by Nahum Shamir, director of Beit Berl, at a meeting held last week in Tel Aviv. Beit Berl — originally Mapsi's "intellecand seniors for three-day seminars during this past school year.

The seminars, designed to promote political awareness, featured lectur-ers of all political persuasions: "from Maki to Gabal" as the Beit Beri spokesman put it. Now, at the end of the school year, lecturers who participated in the seminar, teachers who had come with their classes, school principals and others were invited to a meeting to exchange views. Mr. Shamir made the opening remarks.

"When a young man from Petah Tikva came, he and the pupils al-most came to blows. The pupils preferred not to talk about social problems. Meetings with Arabs were equally noisy and almost violent. I remember my youth, when any equality would disturb me. Today's teenagers don't seem interested."

Views exchanged

In this case, the term "exchange of views" proved not to be a cliche. The exchanges were often rather pointed and sometimes included personal accusations. The principal of a vocational high school in South Tel Aviv said his pupils had not been given the best lecturers when they were at the seminar.

They have friends, and found out that Golda came to talk to other classes. They heard that ministers and top-ranking university lecturers visited the seminar. Their lecturers were mostly university students and they came to the conclusion that they were discriminated against "
There were loud outcries. How could he say such a thing? "A principal who encourages his pupils to think that way..." someone shouted from the other end of the room.

Mr. Shamir tried, with only moderate success, to restore order. "Let the man finish talking. If you have anything to say you'll have a chance later." Only a few minutes before, he had spoken about the students' intolerance. Their teachers were no better, someone later observsanity, cancer or death from its ef- in China." fects?

There is no answer, but the question is real enough. It was first posed publicly at the end of April when a woman who had been taking pills for asthma bought from a sinseh, a doctor practising Chinese traditional medicine, died after both her skin and her sanity had been severely afflicted.

Government hospital revealed that seven other patients were being treated for disorders after swallowing these "Divine Strength" tablets which are being widely sold for below a penny a pill. A distin-guished physician warned that the ingredient containing the arsenic might well be going into other patent medicines on the market (a powder used in a popular remedy for typhoid and other fevers was particularly suspect), and two more preparations on sale were then found to contain twice as much arsenic as the original killer.

Poisonous cures

Up to four Singaporeans out of every 10 go to sinsehs for traditional Chinese treatment when ill, and it has been found that an uning deserved recognition, they still scrupulous minority among these have a problem: when they are not herbal doctors has been peddling in danger of being regarded as poisonous cares and only for a care. poisonous cures, not only for asthquacks they are in even greater ma and typhoid fever, but for indanger of being regarded as infal-fant allments fits, fat, colds and lible. fant ailments, fits, fat, colds and

Lottery for Assaf Harofe hospital

By a Special Correspondent ZRIFIN. INSTALLATION of 40 air-conditioners in the old hutted wards of Assaf Harofe Hospital at Zri-(Sarafand) is the main target of a lottery just launched by its guild of Friends. Tickets will sell at IL3 each. Ten air-conditioners have already been installed in the hospital wards in anticipation of the proceeds. Announcing the new effort, aimed at raising IL90,000, Mr. Julian Meltzer, Chairman of the Friends, said that many valuable prizes had been donated by well-wishers. They included a TV set from Tadiran, giftparcels of Lily and Iris products from the American-Israel Paper Mills, a gift by the artist Rubin Omen in the United States, only She hopes to see banished attitudes of two lithographs, weekends and 6,000 are women and they were hir-like that expressed by a police acaluxury meals at the Four Seasons ed primarily to work with juveniles demy instructor who said, "Why (Netanya), Tel Aviv Hilton, Tel retarded suffered a severe setback reff bres de Hatel

Tel Aviv Maccabi clinches National League title

Jerusalem Post Sports Reporter TEL AVIV. - Tel Aviv Maccabi yesterday beat Jerusalem Hapoel 3:1 in Jerusaiem to clinch the National League championship for the 16th time in the club's history.

Jerusalem Betar, which has been chasing the Tel Avivians for many weeks, drew 1:1 in Kiryat Haim against Haifa Hapoel. In the last game of the season next Saturday, it can only fight to hold the runnerup position. Challenging for second spot is Hakcah of Ramat Gan, 1:0 winners yesterday over Tel Aviv Happel.

At the other end of the table F a 1:0 to push the Hadera team to bottom place. However, both clubs will be relegated and play League "A" football mext season. Yesterday was the last game team captain Mordechai Spiegler played for Netanya Maccabi. He now leaves to play as an amateur for West Ham, the east London club. Spiegier bowed out with two goals in Netanya Maccabi's 3:1 win over Petah Tikva Hapoel.

He is now level with Sharabani of Hakoah and Barnur of Tel Aviv Maccabi as top scorer in the National League, Each has netted 17 goals. (After them comes Victor Saroussi of Netanya Maccabi with 15 goals.) LEAGUE "A"

The League "A" south champion-ship will be decided only next week in the final game of the season. The crucial game will be played on a neutral ground, probably in Petah Tikva, between the two Rehovot clubs, Marmorek Hapoel and Sha'arayim Maccabi. Both won yesterday, and Marmorek has a one point advartage over Sha'arayim which means a draw for Marmorek will be enough for the championship and National League football next season. Reports from Rehovot last night said the atmosphere there was electric.

Nearly 10.000 fans jammed into the Hapoel stadium in Jerusalem and many hundreds more were left outside the gates. Those who got in were rewarded with one of the best games of the season in the Capital. Tel Aviv Maccabi playing at the top of its form looked champions right from the start, and in the 3rd minute Giora Spiegel put Maccabi into the lead with a free kick from Ten minutes later Spiegel broke through, but his shot was blocked by goalkeeper Elkayam. The ball reached Talbi, who passed to Barnur for the latter to head in.
